"American Dreyfus Case" Principal Sees His Plight As Civil Liberties Threat

Oberlin M. Carter, Former Army Captain, Holds That If Conviction's Upheld by Congress, "We Might As Well Bid Goodbye to Liberty"

(By Associated Press)
CHICAGO, Dec. 29.—With war in Europe, Oberlin M. Carter views the principle underlying his self-styled "American Dreyfus case" as a serious threat to the civil liberties of all Americans.

For 40 years the former army captain, a brilliant engineer, has been fighting to clear his name of the stigma of a court martial conviction that blasted his career and sent him to Leavenworth prison for a seven year term.

His conviction of a charge of grafting on a harbor project at Savannah, Ga., he reiterated in an interview today, was based on trumped up evidence to satisfy the jealousies of army associates.

Won High Honors
Appointed to West Point by President Grant, he was graduated in 1880 with the highest record ever attained by a cadet up to that time—1939.6 credits out of a possible 1950. His work on the Savannah project heaped on him the praise of American and foreign engineers. Only a captain, he was appointed to the Nicaragua canal commission, military attaché to the London embassy and war department representative to the International Engineering congress in Stockholm. Then, he related, those who resented his progress and success conspired to break him.

To explain his point that his case left open "an unsuspected road to military dictatorship," Carter related:

"With nations at war in Europe, there is no telling at what moment we might be plunged into it. Emergency measures could be enacted; court martial could usurp the powers of civil courts. Civilians could be tried and convicted on 'made evidence' and would, as my case has shown, be permitted to appeal through the civil courts.

Holds Rights Inviolable
"No court, civil or military, should be able to toss out the bill of rights. If the principle upheld all these years by my conviction is sustained by congress, then we might as well bid goodbye to liberty."

Last July the house military affairs committee voted to approve a bill wiping out the 40-year-old verdict convicting Carter. He said he expected the senate committee on military affairs to act similarly when congress reconvened.

"With this promised help, this is my first hopeful Christmas and New Year season in 40 years," he declared.

The war department insists Carter's claim is baseless and stated it offered him all its records of the case.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 29.—The interstate commerce commission reported today that "malicious tampering" with the tracks caused the derailment of the Southern Pacific's streamline train "City of San Francisco" near Harney, Nev., August 12. Nine passengers and 15 dining car employees were killed in the crash. In addition, 99 passengers and 14 employees were injured.

The commission said that the evidence showed the train was not moving in excess of the maximum authorized speed of 60 miles an hour when it was derailed.

RAGING STORM, DISEASE TRAIL QUAKE TRAGEDY

Total Casualties Estimated at 60,000, Including 20,000 Dead

"THOUSANDS" IN BUILDING RUINS

Martial Law Is Proclaimed; Looters To Be Shot On Sight

(By Associated Press)
ANKARA, Dec. 29.—A raging blizzard, looters and the peril of disease increased a tale of horror today in earthquake-stricken Anatolia. Officials said casualties totaled 30,000, "mostly dead," ranking the catastrophe with the greatest of modern times.

The latest figure evidently did not include exposure victims and the less critically injured, which officials yesterday calculated would bring total casualties to 60,000, including 20,000 killed. They had put dead and injured in the province of Erzurum alone at 42,000.

Buried In Ruins
It was said that "numberless thousands" of persons remained buried in the ruins of buildings.

Special trains bearing hundreds of doctors with supplies and medicines managed today to reach some of the ravaged areas isolated since the great tremors of Wednesday. They were unable to reach many localities because of blocked roads and collapsed bridges.

Authorities said more tremors might come in the next 10 days. Director Fatin of the Istanbul observatory said that geological disturbance apparently occurred 16 miles below the surface and covered a wide area, so that further movements were likely before the strata settled.

As one single item of the tragedy, they reported finding great numbers of stray children in pitiful condition in the mountainous, icy woods.

Three additional earth shocks last night added to distress in the ravaged area of east central Turkey. Panic-stricken, many persons prostrated themselves in the snow before ruined mosques to pray for deliverance. Minarets had been

FDR, JR., WIFE, IN AUTO CRASH

Neither Apparently Seriously Hurt In Accident Near Winchester

WINCHESTER, Va., Dec. 29.—Franklin D. Roosevelt, Jr. and Mrs. Roosevelt were injured in an automobile accident early today near Paris, about 23 miles east of Winchester.

The President's son and daughter-in-law were brought to a Winchester hospital, where they were admitted for treatment of head lacerations.

First reports from the hospital said that neither young Roosevelt nor his wife, the former Ethel Dupont, appeared to be seriously hurt.

They had attended a party at "Scaleby," the estate near Boyce, Va., of Kenneth N. Gilpin, member of the state highway commission. A state trooper said his information was that the car ran into the rear of a truck on the slippery highway in the darkness between 5 and 6 a. m.

Roosevelt is a law student at the University of Virginia. He and Mrs. Roosevelt make their home in Charlottesville.

STEINMETZ HELD FOR U.S. JURORS

Former Salem, Beloit Man Pleads Guilty In Youngstown

Charles M. Steinmetz, 36, formerly of Salem and Beloit, pleaded guilty yesterday before U. S. Commissioner Ross E. Diser, Youngstown, to a charge of "intending to steal and purloin money," and was held for the federal grand jury at Cleveland.

Steinmetz was charged with complicity in the safe burglary of Waynesburg bank last July 16, in which two men got $1,163 in coins but missed $17,000 in currency and $8,000 in securities in another safe.

Steinmetz had been suspected by local police and state highway patrolmen as one of the two men who broke into the bank after cutting through a two and one-half foot floor of a dentist's office over the bank and holding Elwood Thomas, a painter, captive for six hours after Thomas arrived to do some work in the office of Dr. C. S. Stratton, the dentist.

Steinmetz was linked to the safe robbery by FBI agents after he, two men, and a woman were arrested in an apartment near the Steubenville police station after police confiscated guns, tear gas guns, nitroglycerine, and blasting caps in a raid on the apartment.

Arrested with Steinmetz were Salvatore Rini, 34, Wellsville; Joseph Sergi, 26, Columbus, and Mrs. Thelma Bontemp, 24, East Liverpool, who were released on $1,500 cash bonds after they were held to the grand jury on charges of possessing explosives.

You May Not Be Aware of it, But You're A Walking Radio

Every Person Is Broadcasting Set, Say Scientists, And They Don't Mean Verbally

By STEPHEN J. McDONOUGH
Associated Press Science Writer
COLUMBUS, Dec. 29.—Every person and living thing on earth is a radio broadcasting and receiving set unconsciously sending out and receiving long-wave wireless messages.

Prof. I. I. Rabi, Dr. P. Kusch and Dr. S. Millman of Columbia university, told the American Association for the Advancement of Science today that all atoms, whether part of the heart tissue of man or a piece of steel, constantly emit radio waves which can be detected and measured.

Even death of an animal organism does not mean the stopping of activity, they said, since the atoms which form part of the living cell continue to emit radiation after the organism as a whole has ceased to function.

The Columbia scientists measured these radio waves from atoms for the first time and found them similar to the action of visible light, even though the waves are much shorter and can be detected only by delicate apparatus.

The importance of this discovery and measurement is not the sole proof that the human body is a broadcasting station, they declared.

RED AIRPLANES RENEW BOMBING OF FINN CITIES

Russians Smash Again at Southwestern Areas Of Finland

RESULTS OF AIR FORAY UNKNOWN

Soviet Land Forces Rolled Back on One Sector of 1,000-Mile Front

(By Associated Press)
HELSINKI, Dec. 29.—With Finns unbowed after a month of attack by Soviet Russia, the Red air force smashed again today at southwestern Finland.

Almost as if in reprisal for a victory claimed by Finland on the eastern front—perhaps actually the winning of a new foothold on Russian soil for a third thrust toward the Murmansk railway—Russian bombing planes attacked railway junctions at Hyvinkaa, Riihimaki and Karjaa.

Hanko Under Alarm
Also under alarm was Finland's southwestern coastal base, Hanko. The coastal towns of Kotka and Evonko were bombed during the night.

Results of this far flung aerial foray in terms of damage or casualties were not at once forthcoming.

An army communique announcing that Red forces had been rolled back in one sector of the 1,000-mile eastern frontier at least indicated strong flank support for one of two defensive invasions by ski troops toward Russia's far north supply artery, the Murmansk railway.

"Foiled" by Guerrilla War
The communique said that the Russians were "foiled" by the guerrilla warfare being waged by the hit-and-run ski forces on Russian soil east of Lieksa and that "the enemy also has been pushed back across the frontier northeast of Lieksa."

There were still no reports of the outcome of a parallel foray toward the railway from the Salla region.

However, dispatches reaching Stockholm from the Salla sector told of a new Russian assault there, against Finland at her narrowest point. The Russians, apparently trying to regain 50 miles of ground lost in the past few days to counter-attacking Finns had brought up hundreds of new, quick firing field pieces.

The dispatches added that lack of knowledge of the terrain in that section of Finland's snowy, gale-swept frontier, just above the Arctic circle, hampered the attackers. Artillery commanders, in fact, were said to have become so confused that at one time they poured mortar fire onto their own Red troops.

Lisbon Man Is Fined On Traffic Charge

LISBON, Dec. 29.—Homer Melinger of Lisbon was fined $100 and costs, given a 60-day suspended jail sentence, and lost his driver's license for a year when he pleaded guilty to driving while intoxicated, before Mayor G. C. Rauch last evening.

Melinger was arrested Wednesday afternoon by Officer Charles Patterson and Deputy Sheriff Howard Clark after it was alleged he had driven onto the sidewalk in the business district.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 29.—The administration is looking to the new year for better business in the hope that it may bring not only political success but more revenue to cut down the federal deficit.

Government economists, though they specify reservations a mile long, believe that 1940 will be generally a pretty good business year—not so good as 1939 but better than any year since then.

Right now factories are shown by available statistics to be turning out about as much goods as they did at the height of 1929, so that most of the economists' doubts arise, not from the production outlook, but from phases of consumption currently, goods are not being bought as fast as they are being produced.

President Roosevelt himself has tied the business outlook into his fiscal problem, predicting that the budget could be balanced without increasing taxes whenever there is an $80,000,000,000 national income.

This figure, which approximates the national production of wealth in 1929, is about $10,000,000,000 more than Secretary of Commerce Hopkins has estimated was achieved this year.

Plans are being considered for a more extensive event next year.

GOOD BUSINESS IN '40 IS HOPE

THREE SEAMEN KILLED, VESSEL 'DAMAGED SOME'

Unofficial Reports Say Ship Safe, Proceeding On Course

NAME, LOCATION NOT ANNOUNCED

Germans Say Target Was Ship In Queen Elizabeth Class

(By Associated Press)
LONDON, Dec. 29.—The admiralty announced today that a German submarine had attacked a British battleship, killing three men and causing "some damage."

It was asserted unofficially that the battleship was safe after the attack and was proceeding on her course.

Follows German Announcement

(The announcement followed one by the German supreme command that a British battleship of the Queen Elizabeth class had been torpedoed by a German submarine "west of Scotland.")

After receipt of the German announcement, the admiralty issued a short communique:

"A torpedo attack has been made on a British battleship by a U-boat. Some damage was caused and three men were killed." Officials declined to make any further comment and gave no indication what battleship was involved or when or where she was attacked.

Five Ships In Class

The Queen Elizabeth class includes five ships, the oldest in the British navy, all laid down before the World war and completed in the early years of that conflict before the Battle of Jutland.

They are the Queen Elizabeth, Warspite, and Valiant, all of 30,600 tons, and the Barham and Malaya, 31,100 tons. Each carries a main battery of eight 15-inch guns. All have undergone considerable reconstruction in recent years.

Former Conductor Takes His Own Life

ALLIANCE, Dec. 29.—Frank E. Witherspoon, 73, former Star Electric Railway conductor, shot himself to death with a revolver Thursday in the home of Mr. and Mrs. John P. Scanlon, with whom he and his wife, Celeste, had been residing.

Mr. Witherspoon, a former Minerva resident, had been ill for a week. He belonged to the Presbyterian church.

Besides his wife, he leaves a daughter, Mrs. Verna Ball of Alliance; a son, Elford E. of Alliance; a stepson, Frank M. Corruthers of Cleveland; a grandson; a brother, Harry of Canton; and three sisters, Mrs. Ella Reeder of Cleveland, Mrs. Kate McGhee of Bayard and Mrs. Dora Elton of East Rochester.

Rites will be held at 10:30 a. m. Saturday at the Cassidy & Turk funeral home. Friends may call tonight.

Jurors to Continue Campbell Vote Quiz

YOUNGSTOWN, Dec. 29.—The grand jury reported last yesterday 122 of 426 ballots cast Nov. 7 in Precinct B of suburban Campbell's Third ward were "short-penciled in favor of one individual."

The county jury said it had time to make only a "hasty investigation" before the end of its term and urged that the next grand jury go further into the "shocking conditions" and attempt to place responsibility.

"That ballots were tampered with and marked, is so plain that no close examination is required," the jurors declared.

DYNAMITE FENCES

Little boys and girls will learn in their 1940 geography lessons that Great Britain is an island surrounded by mines on the east, submarines on the south, Ireland on the west, battleships on the north, and airplanes overhead. To keep up to date, they will have to read the daily newspaper.

For instance, the mines on the east have been mostly German ones, up to this time. In the future, they will be British mines, laid inside the German mines, for the purpose of keeping enemy craft away from British shores. This will be duly noted in the revised text, which will tell of 200,000-odd mines strung from Scapa Flow to the Straits of Dover. There never was such a mine field before in history.

This dynamite fence, matching other fences of the same kind in the North sea, is the latest wrinkle in ruffled international relations. When it is completed, unless someone mislays the charts, British boats will be able to come in and go out with the greatest of ease and safety, but trespassers will be blown to bits. In the same way, German boats know how to go in and out of Germany's mine fields, but British, French and neutral boats must take the consequences.

It must be a task to explain this to young geographers wondering why when the earth's so big the people on it should be wanting to blow one another into oblivion.

HENRY L. DOHERTY

The brain was put in the head at the top of the body so it could be isolated from disturbances down below. Then a two-way communication system was installed and the plan was ruined. The body became a partner in the arrangement, instead of an employee.

Occasionally, there is an exception. Henry L. Doherty was one. He has died at the age of 69 after directing one of the largest business organizations in the world from a hospital bed for the last three years. He was the master mind behind Cities Service Co.

Mr. Doherty probably would not have wanted to have this part of his unusual career over-emphasized. His affliction was not lifelong, even though it was of sufficient duration to discourage most men long before it finally robbed him of the privilege of motion.

Probably it was not remarkable at all that he surmounted this handicap. He had overcome other almost as great in his rise to the top—lack of education, for instance. He had amazing capacity for effort. Not content to be a top flight businessman, he found time and patience to carve a distinguished record in engineering. When the occasion arose, he found time to learn how to master pain too.

His success story, like most of them, is really the story of diligence. In such men the pent-up energy of the atom seems to be released.

CLIMAX IN FINLAND

On Nov. 29, Soviet Russia showed its hand in Finland by charging it had been attacked. The war was on. A month later, it has come to a climax with massing of red troops for a final effort to break Finnish resistance. Finland's fate cannot hang in the balance much longer.

The world admires the Finns for defending themselves bravely against an overwhelmingly superior force. But Russia has the manpower, the supplies and no doubt the tenacity to overcome its capable, but weaker, opponent. There never has been any question about the ultimate outcome of the war with Finland fighting alone.

The only question there has been is whether enough outside assistance would be made available to avert Finland's collapse. Considerable assistance has been reported, but not enough to alter the prospect of ultimate defeat. Finland needs hundreds of thousands of trained soldiers, millions of dollars' worth of equipment—and needs them immediately.

It is this prospect that now must be examined honestly. For a month, Finnish resistance has encouraged a delusion of Finnish triumph. Soviet Russian prestige has been shattered, but the fact remains that Finland is doomed to extinction if, as now appears to be the case, the red army is going to throw its full resources into the fray. Finland won't be saved by wishful thinking any more than Czechoslovakia was saved by the pact of Munich.

EMBARGO

Cambridge, Mass., which might be expected to know better, and does, is going to make a silly razor against Communism by putting an embargo on the name of Lenin. No publication containing the name can enter the city under the terms of a resolution passed by the Cambridge council.

The embargo won't work and probably won't be taken seriously by anyone except muddleheads, yet it illustrates a common type of confusion. Cambridge isn't the first to make the mistake.

Lenin is not Communism any more than Stalin, Marx, Browder or a Harvard pink. Communism is a way of thinking that has been jelled into an ideology by the preachings of various individuals, usually in violent disagreement with each other.

Like pellagra, it is a symptom of a physical condition, readily curable by treating the condition. Communism can't be eliminated by passing a law about it, but only by developing resistance to it.

This is obvious, but only to persons willing to look behind the symptom for the cause. Cambridge, it may be assumed, is as sensible as any other American community—and has its quota of muddleheads, too.

A news item says: "It is reported that hundreds of women in China are practicing surgery." That's because hundreds of thousands of Japanese have been practicing butchery.

For Saturday, December 30

A VERY interesting and intriguing day is read from the lunar transits. The strong point is in dealing with employers, superiors or those in high places, whose support and preferment may be needed for desired promotion, honors or security of position. These perhaps may best be attained by means of finesse, strategem and suavity rather than a direct or aggressive approach. It is a fortuitous time for asking favors.

Those whose birthday it is are on the eve of a year of progress and promotion, with tokens of confidence, preferment and esteem to be won from those in high places through the velvet approach rather than by obvious and strenuous pressure. Use discretion and finesse when seeking favors.

A child born on this day may be talented, ambitious, astute and versatile, as well as diplomatic and subtle. It should attain good position in life.

BUTTER FROM COAL

By HOWARD W. BLAKESLEE

COLUMBUS, Dec. 29.—Germany is prepared to make edible fats from coal and shale. Quite literally, in a pinch she can make her butter from coal.

Details of this discovery were given to the American Association For the Advancement of Science today by a recently arrived German expatriate, Dr. Willy Lange, of the Basic Science Research laboratory, University of Cincinnati.

Dr. Lange was an assistant professor in the University of Berlin, and his figures covered developments up to midsummer, shortly before start of the war.

Fats and copper are the two materials which informed scientists here said Germany was most likely to run short of in war. This month there have been news reports that Germany was progressing on the fat problem with new synthetic chemistry.

The coal fats, Dr. Lange said, are made by blowing steam through burning coal to produce carbon monoxide and hydrogen. This poisonous gas is the starting substance which, with subsequent chemical treatments, becomes first industrial fat, and then edible fat.

Shale, of which Germany has a larger supply than of coal, is another starting material for butter substitutes. The shale is first converted into oil.

Chemists who heard Dr. Lange's paper said it appears that anything which provides a lot of carbon monoxide is good for making edible fats.

Germany's immediate purpose, Dr. Lange said, is to make industrial fats, mostly soaps, which need not be so pure as the edible kind, in order to save her natural fats for food.

The method, known as the Fischer-Tropsch process, started on large-scale fat manufacture two years ago. Last midsummer the first two plants reached a production of 60,000 tons annually. Germany's total industrial fat needs total 230,000 tons.

The cost of making the coal fats, he said, is nearly twice that of natural fat. The figure is low for a new industry.

New Instruments Valuable In Treating Eye Disorders

By LOGAN CLENDENING, M. D.

CONTINUING our catalogue of progress in medicine in 1939, we list the following, more, as we have said, to acquaint the reader with the many fields in which medical work is being done, than in the hope that he will be very much enlightened, since the field is technical.

Eye—An instrument for measuring the blood pressure in the retinal vessels has been introduced. Another instrument is the gonioscope which measures the angle between the iris and the cornea; this is of purely technical interest. In cataract operations a decided improvement has been made in that the lens and capsule are now removed in toto.

Kidney Disease—Nothing significant. Diabetes—Attempts to rehabilitate the diabetic patient have been continuous. It has been found that during five years of employment of severe diabetics, no time was lost by 39 per cent and very little time lost by the rest.

Improvement Made
Improvement in the chemistry of insulin has been made. Crystalline insulin was put on the market late last year, but protamine zinc insulin remains the slowly-acting, long-lasting insulin of choice.

Diabetes in children is treated much more intelligently now than several years ago. Children who are dwarfed or who have other endocrine deficiencies are coming under a stabilized plan of treatment. Safeguarding surgery and pregnancy in diabetic patients has reached the stage of a fine art.

Allergic Diseases—This is an active field. More information concerning the underlying principles and the mechanism of allergy is available, and diagnosis and management are that much easier.

In asthma I am glad to see the allergists admit that all is not allergy that wheezes. A report says that "When asthma of great severity is accompanied by changes in the white cell count of the blood and by pain and numbness in the extremities, the probable diagnosis is a form of rheumatism called periarthritis nodosa."

Used For Hives

Potassium chloride is being used for hives.

Helium and oxygen therapy in asthma is finding more and more advocates.

A recent study of progress in this field concludes by saying, "Real progress in allergic disease awaits a discovery of the first magnitude."

Industrial Medicine—Aside from tightening up preventive measures in silicon dust diseases, most of the progress in this field has been of a medico-social character.

Children's Diseases—The principal progress there has been the extensive use of sulfapyridine in infections of childhood.

Physical Therapy—The use of the induction of fever as a treatment of disease has been extended to undulant fever, many eye diseases and skin diseases.

Surgery—I have reviewed surgery of all parts of the body and believe, surprisingly enough, that more advance has been made in surgery of the esophagus (gullet) than in anything else.

Endocrine Diseases—The widespread use of the sex hormone, testosterone propionate, has perhaps been the most spectacular and solid achievement in this field.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS

Anonymous—"Is it possible that mother's milk does not agree with a baby? If so, how can one tell?"

Answer—"The only common fault with mother's milk is that there is not enough of it. This can be told by the fact that the baby does not gain weight on normally frequent feedings. A good plan is to weigh the baby before and after feeding."

EDITOR'S NOTE: Dr. Clendenning has seven pamphlets which can be obtained by readers. Each pamphlet sells for 10 cents. For any one pamphlet desired, send 10 cents in coin, and a self-addressed envelope stamped with a three-cent stamp, to Dr. Logan Clendenning, 235 E. 45th st., New York. The pamphlets are: "Three Weeks' Reducing Diet", "Indigestion and Constipation", "Reducing and Gaining", "Infant Feeding", "Instructions for the Treatment of Diabetes", "Feminine Hygiene and 'The Care of the Hair and Skin'."

YAKIMA, Wash.—Stanley Bellevue, an amateur short-wave radio operator, estimates he has made more than 13,000 contacts with "hams" in foreign countries. He has confirmation cards or letters from more than 5,000 of them. Recently he reached another operator at Stanleyville, deep in west central Africa.

LITERATURE AID IN PEACE WORK

Low Cost Printing Makes Free Interchange Possible

CLEVELAND — New scientific printing techniques may lead to stronger and more friendly relations between nations if the unique program launched by Flora Stone Mather college of Western Reserve university here succeeds.

"We hope that our plan will lead to a better understanding—when is to say a more friendly relationship—among nations, particularly the Americas," said Dr. Robert C. Binkley, professor of history and proponent of the plan.

Dr. Binkley pointed out that free interchange of literature between nations previously had been hampered by high publication costs.

"But recent advances in printing techniques," he said, "such as micro-photography, photo-offset and copy-to-order, have dissolved this barrier."

Translations Under Way
Already, Mather students have begun translation of Latin-American literature preparatory to publication under the new processes.

Dr. Binkley has received indication under the new processes, operation from the State department in Washington.

The joint committee on materials for research, sponsored by the American Council of Learned Societies and the Social Science Research Council, has been experimenting with cheaper methods of printing contributions by scientists and scholars. Dr. Binkley is chairman of the committee.

"Commercial publications must sell about 2,000 copies before expenses are met," Dr. Binkley explained. "Frequently the work of scientists and scholars, although highly important, does not receive such a large circulation. That is the reason cheap printing is so vital to the spreading of new truths and cultures."

Columbian Work First
The possibilities of the plan will be demonstrated through the translation here of 40 volumes of an anthology of Colombian literature. Authorization was received from Senator Daniel Samper-Ortega of the Colombian embassy in Washington.

Once the typed translations are prepared by volunteer linguists both the photo-offset method, in which the typing is photographed directly onto a zinc plate which then goes to the press, and the copy-to-order method will be used.

For making copy-to-order printing, Dr. Binkley explained, pages of the manuscript are made translucent by immersion in a solution developed by Miss Helen Skowronska, Mather assistant in chemistry.

Strong light projected through the pages imprints the typing on sensitized sheets, which subsequently may be bound in book form.

"The development of culture and education has always been closely correlated with the art of printing," Dr. Binkley said. "It seems altogether likely that new advances in the latter will bring on proportional advances in the former."

DAMASCUS
Mr. and Mrs. Frank Mather and family entertained at a family dinner Christmas day. Guests were Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Mather and children of Fish Creek, Miss Clara White of Berlin Center, Mr. and COLUMBIANA, Dec. 29. — Announcement is made of the engagement and approaching marriage of Miss Ida Jane Steele, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. R. J. Steele, Elm st., to Kenneth Ward, son of Mr. and Mrs. Harry Ward of Fairfield ave. The wedding will take place Saturday, Dec. 30 at Pittsburgh, Pa.

Mrs. E. T. Coyle was hostess to associate members of the Sorosis club Wednesday evening for the annual Christmas party at her home on North Main st. The evening was spent in an informal manner with a gift exchange followed by a lunch, with seasonal appointments.

The Christian Endeavor society of the Presbyterian church held a covered supper and Christmas party at the church last night. Betty Moore, president, was in charge. Following the supper games were enjoyed.

Miss Viola Steele of Canajoharie, New York, is spending the holiday season with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. R. J. Steele.

Regains Husband

Mrs. Natalia Modzelewska and baby Andre, 2 1/2, arriving in Jersey City, N. J., aboard the President Garfield, receive a cablegram from London announcing that her husband is alive and safe in England. She had given him up for dead when the Polish ship Slaska, on which he was an officer, struck a mine and sank at sea in August.

Baa, Baa Black Sheep

BUENNA VISTA, Colo.—State reformatory officials spent so much time counting sheep they appealed to the sheriff—not a doctor. One hundred fifty animals were missing.

Sheriff Charles Calvert said five men arrested at Leadville admitted trading wine to reformatory inmates for the sheep.

REICH'S TIMBER SEEN DEPLETED

Germany Declared To Be Over-Cutting Its Forests

WASHINGTON—Prof. Nelson C. Brown of the New York College of Forestry predicts that Germany will face a serious problem because it is over-cutting its forests and lacks foreign exchange for extensive purchases abroad.
Returning from Germany just as Hitler's armies were moving into Poland in early September, Brown pictured the situation as being already serious because of blockades, an increasing demand for wood because of the war and the fact that forests in the Reich are being over-cut by 50 per cent.
"The extent to which Germany will be able to draw upon its forests to help meet the demands of its war machine, on the one hand, and the needs of its new economy with increased populations, on the other, remains to be seen," he said.
"The length of the war and the scope of Germany's new knowledge in respect to chemical and mechanical uses of wood may be determining factors."
Brown believes that Americans have been led to believe that German forests provide all that is needed in the Reich for all purposes.
"This is not true," he said, "as Germany produces only two-thirds of its requirements. The balance must come from Russia, Finland and Sweden."
Brown said methods for extracting sugar for both human and animal consumption from wood have been developed in Germany and many different chemicals, plastics and forms of plywood are being made from German forest products to overcome deficiencies.
Scientific developments are designed not only to help relieve the import situation," he said, "but to release the strain on other resources."
"One of the most interesting attempts to devise means of substituting materials that must be important is the use of wood and charcoal to supplant gasoline. Various forms of alcohol extracted from wood, grapes, potatoes and sugar beets are being mixed with imported gasoline for motor fuel."
Brown said that "considering its unsteady monetary system, its difficulty in paying for much-needed raw materials, the insufficiency of its domestic production and the serious over-cutting of its forests, there seems little doubt but that Germany is facing a most serious economic problem."

WINONA LADIES AID CONVENES

Mrs. Lowell Whitney
Hostess; Program Is Presented

WINONA, Dec. 29.—The December meeting of the Ladies' Aid was held at the home of Mrs. Lowell Whitney, Thursday afternoon. The president, Mrs. L. A. Weaver, had charge of the business meeting and Mrs. Richard Stamp conducted devotions.

Plans were made for the next four meetings, with Mrs. W. L. Lewton as chairman of the January group, Mrs. Earl Ruble, February, Mrs. Willard Cope, March, and Mrs. Lewis Brown, April.

Mrs. Clyde Whitacre distributed gifts in the Christmas exchange and a delightful lunch was served by the hostess assisted by her mother, Mrs. Frank Ward.

Announce Engagement

Mr. and Mrs. L. J. Mountz entertained at a Copeck and Mountz family Christmas dinner Sunday. During an exchange of gifts an announcement of the engagement of Miss Carolyn Cameron, Cleveland, to Kenneth Copeck, was made. Miss Cameron is a registered nurse in Lakeside hospital, Cleveland. Their wedding will be an event of the near future.

Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Hutton have gone to Columbus where they will spend the next few months. They will keep house for William Backburn, and their son Charles will room with them.

Mr. and Mrs. L. S. Cope and son Raymond, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Brantingham and son Jay, of Warren, spent Christmas day with Mr. and Mrs. Walter Stratton.

Guests In Stanley Home

Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Hutton and children Elizabeth and Charles were Wednesday supper guests of Mr. and Mrs. C. E. Stanley.

E. Y. Gamble attended an insurance convention in Columbus, recently.

Mr. and Mrs. James Dewese and daughter June were Thursday supper guests of Mr. and Mrs. Clifford Stanley.

Mr. and Mrs. Earl Ruble and children spent the Christmas weekend with Mrs. Ruble's mother, Mrs. Anna Crockett, Fredericktown, Pa.

Today's Pattern

Whisk about your household tasks with the cheeriest of spirits in this crisp apron. Both sketched versions are made from Anne Adams' Pattern 4285—an easy-to-sew style with the Sewing Instructor's aid. See how nicely the high-cut sides curve to the back, for trim bodice fit. Criss-cross straps ending in a perky bow keep firmly in place. The full bias skirt and the top are each cut in one simple piece. Make the top edge of the bib scalloped, if you like, and use buttons and ruffle or tie-trim trim. Gay contrast is pretty for the straps, the pockets and the back bow.

Pattern 4285 is available in sizes small, medium and large. Small size, view B, takes 2½ yards 35-inch fabric and ¾ yard contrast; view A, 2½ yards 35-inch fabric and 5½ yards tie-raid.

Send FIFTEEN CENTS (15c) in coins for this Anne Adams pattern. Write plainly SIZE, NAME, ADDRESS and STYLE NUMBER.

"NOW IS THE TIME to prepare for Spring," says Anne Adams about her NEW SPRING PATTERN BOOK which is now ready for you to order. It's alive with attractive styles including a youth corner for tots, teens and twenties, evening-belle frocks, Spring bridal finery, carnival cottons and gay prints. You will even find balanced styles for scale-tipping matrons and charm shop suggestions for forty-plusers. The book is fifteen cents but when ordered with a pattern, which is also fifteen cents, THE TWO TOGETHER ARE TWENTY-FIVE CENTS.

PROCESSING TAX GETS NEW PUSH

Streamlined Version Put Forward As Issue
For 1940

WASHINGTON—Out of the discard into which the Supreme court tossed it three years ago, Secretary of Agriculture Henry A. Wallace has reclaimed the processing tax and streamlined it for the 1940 political show.

Wallace—if he has any personal political ambitions—will stake his chances for a four-year White House lease on one of the most controversial issues to spring out of the New Deal. Wallace has taken the offensive in challenging tax opponents to battle.

He issued his challenge in Oklahoma City, Okla. recently when he said in a speech broadcast over a nationwide radio hookup:

"The farmer is hit by the tariff going and coming and he needs protection too. The old processing tax was the farmers' tariff. The producers need a modern, streamlined version of that tax back again."

Millers Head Fight

The Millers' National Federation has taken up the opposition fight. The federation argues that the processing tax "is a discriminatory tax in that it favors untaxed foods" and asserted that "it will unquestionably result in decreased consumption of wheat."

The federation said that during the last crop year the milling industry ground $50,000,000 more bushels of wheat into flour than it did five years ago under the processing tax. A new tax on wheat "will wipe out constructive efforts now being made to increase consumption," the federation said.

Wallace, anticipating the federation's opposition, said he was familiar with arguments against the processing tax principle. "Some of the processors," he said, "begin to weep about the consumer the moment they hear the words processing tax."

Urban Protests Answered

"Such a tax will not be unfair to the consumer as long as the market prices plus the tax is not above parity. City people have less right to kick against parity prices for farm products, even if attained by a processing tax, than farmers have to kick against manufacturing and handling margins and some other costs which are twice what they were in pre-war days."

Wallace said that arguments against processing taxes "really amount to arguments against fair prices for cotton, wheat and rice and other commodities." Those were the three commodities on which he suggested a tax to be used toward financing farm benefit payments.

Under the Wallace proposal farmers would get production certificates issued by the Department of Agriculture. Processors of cotton, for example, would be required to buy these certificates to sell their goods.

The certificates would be equal in value to a certain number of cents per pound or bushel. The growers would sell their certificates to the processor, either directly or through a pool. The money thus obtained directly from processors would replace government benefit payments derived from treasury funds.

Emergency Stop

PASADENA, Calif.—The parked sedan in which 7-year-old Robin Slocumb was playing with her doll started to roll down a steep grade.

She jumped into the driver's seat and tugged at the emergency brake. Unable to stop the car, she seized the steering wheel and turned the machine into a tree only a few hundred feet from a busy intersection.

"I was afraid my doll would get hurt," she explained as officers took her to a hospital for treatment of minor bruises.

SABETHA, Kas.—Noah Henry,

who owns several hives of bees, has a novel cure for rheumatism. While tending his bees, Henry found that bee stings helped his rheumatism. Now, whenever Henry notices his rheumatism getting worse, he has several bees sting him.

Where Quake Kills Many

The above map shows the location of catastrophic earthquakes in Turkey which have killed thousands, according to reports, and wiped out many villages. The quake was centered in Anatolia province with cities of Samsun, Sivas, Ordu, Tokat and Amasia hardest hit.

Theatre Attractions

Another page in American history, this time a more modern one, is unfolded in "The Roaring Twenties," which shows tonight and Saturday at the State theatre.

James Cagney, Priscilla Lane, Humphrey Bogart, Gladys George, Jeffrey Lynn, Frank McHugh, Paul Kelly and Elizabeth Risdon head the cast of the picture, which is based on a story by Columnist Mark Hellinger.

Hellinger, whose career as one of America's ace newspaper columnists included the writing of stories which made newspaper history of the turbulent, flashy days following the World war, draws from his store of material and produces an exciting, absorbing motion picture.

Three World war veterans, buddies overseas, Cagney, Bogart and Lynn, return home to find their former jobs are gone. Bootlegging absorbs them until Lynn falls in love with Priscilla Lane and leaves his friends.

Cagney, a big shot bootlegger, and Bogart, his henchman, change places after the crash. Lynn becomes racketeer investigator and draws threats from his former friend, Bogart. His sweetheart appeals to Cagney, who is in love with her, to keep the two friends apart. His answer forms the climax to the film story.

At the Grand tonight and Saturday is a Roy Rogers western, "The Arizona Kid."

MARIPOSA, Cal.—While camping near here, Boy Scouts captured a 33-inch king snake which, after considerable prodding, disgorged a 27-inch water snake still alive. Both snakes were allowed to go unmolested.

James Cagney as he appears in the leading role in "The Roaring Twenties," showing at the State tonight and Saturday.

MINES STEP UP FLOW OF MICA

Prices Shoot Upward After Outbreak of War in Europe

SPRUCE PINE, N. C.—Hundreds of steel-helmeted men are working day and night in the 300-odd mica mines in the mountains of North Carolina.

With the outbreak of war in Europe, mica prices shot upward, hundreds of additional miners were hired and mine-owners demanded that work be carried out as rapidly as possible.

Without mica, war cannot go on. To have airplanes, motor trucks, tanks of any equipment involving motors or electricity, there must be mica—the best insulating material and the only really satisfactory one ever discovered.

For Domestic Use

As a result, manufacturers are turning to North Carolina for this material, for imports have been virtually cut off. But the Allied blockade and the German counter-blockade is not responsible for this. Those countries need what materials they have to fight the war.

Manufacturers of equipment for the U. S. army and navy are purchasing large quantities, and the government itself is seeking information concerning the extent of the deposits to determine if there is enough for future needs.

State Geologist H. J. Bryson said that for many years North Carolina had been producing 60 per cent of the mica mined in this country.

"With at least 300 mines either in operation or capable of being operated and with hundreds of deposits that have not yet been mined," he said, "there is no doubt that North Carolina can supply most of the mica needed in this country—not only now but in years to come."

On 24-Hour Schedule

The mica mines in the Spruce Pine area, many of them idle until last Sept. 3, now are operating 24 hours a day.

Along with the increase in the demand for mica for use in manufacture of electrical equipment, the demand for ground mica for use in roofing materials, rubber goods, paints and other commodities also has increased as result of an upswing in building throughout the country.

It is not possible to estimate how much mica is being mined each day now. But this much is known: In the Spruce Pine area alone, the mines are running from 10 to 12 carloads behind each week in filling orders.

Wellsville Refuses To Accept Project

WELLSVILLE, Dec. 29.—Mayor Howard Kelley said today the city has refused to accept the $400,000 flood dike in the east end because of an "impossible clause."

The structure has been completed and only the formality of city acceptance to assure its maintenance and operation of the electric pumps is awaited.

Mayor Kelley said he balked at the United States engineers' provision that the city must maintain a stock of sand and bags sufficient to line about 600 feet of 18th st. from Main st. to the school building, apparently required by the engineers as a secondary precaution. The mayor said the "city cannot possibly buy and stock that much sand."

They Like Her Oomph

Dorothy (Dee) Worthington (above), 18-year-old freshman at Temple University, Philadelphia, Pa., has been crowned the college's champion "oomph girl," selected by editors of Temple's humor magazine, "The Owl." The Pitman, N. J., girl is blonde, blue-eyed, 5 feet 6 inches tall and weighs 125 pounds. She hopes to become a laboratory technician.

GOOD BUSINESS IN '40 IS HOPE

Administration Optimistic, Politically and Financially

peace in Europe, in the opinion of the magazine Iron Age, "would not necessarily be catastrophic for the American steel industry," but it would not tend to improve operating schedules.

The steel manufacturing journal, in a year-end forecast today, asserted that, unless the war should end suddenly, the steel business in 1940 probably should enjoy a steady and fairly good volume.

It predicted that with the continuance of the war, foreign trade would be an important factor in determining whether 1940 would be a good steel year or merely a fair 12 months.

"A sudden ending of the war at some time during 1940," said Iron Age, "would not necessarily be catastrophic for the American steel industry, although a few months of hesitation and uncertainty might ensue."

"In considering the prospects for 1940, it seems to be obvious that a prolongation of the record-breaking production of the final quarter of 1939 is not to be expected—at any rate beyond January or February."

Here and There About Town

Penitent Wins Freedom

The Hanoverton youth who walked into police headquarters here earlier this week and confessed forging a $23.81 check on a Berg-holz coal company, was released yesterday by Chief of Police Ralph Stoffer.

The chief ordered the penitent youth to leave town rather than turn him over to Jefferson county authorities, who would have had to prosecute the case.

Hospital Notes

Mrs. Pearl C. Keist of Gunnison, Colo., and June Rae Rupert of New Waterford have entered Salem City hospital for medical treatment.

William Ferrall and Mrs. Fred Mix of Leetonia have been admitted to Salem City hospital for surgical treatment.

Nancy Treblecock of 410 East Eighth st. had her tonsils removed at Salem City hospital today.

Back To Normal

With the Christmas mailing season at an end, the postoffice will observe its regular Saturday schedule tomorrow. Letter carriers will make one delivery, while winndows in the postoffice lobby will close at 1 p. m.

Postmaster A. E. Beardmore said the postoffice would observe regular holiday schedules in being closed all day Monday, New Year's.

Kiwanians Hear War Talk

Causes and motives of war were discussed by Atty Charles McCorkhill at yesterday's Kiwanis club luncheon in the Memorial building. Quest for power and wealth, which motivated battles in the early centuries, remains today as one of the prime causes for wholesale bloodshed, he pointed out.

He was presented by A. F. Morris

Driver Fined $10

Simon Reichbaum of Pittsburgh, arrested by state highway patrolmen on Route 14, just east of Salem, for reckless driving, was fined $10 and costs by Mayor George Harroff yesterday afternoon.

Granges To Install

Installation of officers will be held by Butler grange team at Salem grange Monday, following an oyster dinner at noon. All Salem grange members are asked to attend.

Reports Accident

Peter Taus of 880 Jehnnings ave., told police a car bearing license plates N-107-L hit the rear of his machine on the Benton road yesterday morning.

Snow Cleared

Service department crews were busy with shovels and trucks today, cleaning the snow from the downtown streets.

FLORIDA LOOKS TO BOOM IN '40'S

Next Decade Expected To Be Profitable One For Southern State

ST. PETERSBURG, Fla.—Florida is looking ahead to the "roaring forties."

Punch drunk from the beating it took during the last half of the 1920s, America's sunporch wobbled through the '30s and now all indications are that the next decade will be the most prosperous in the peninsula's history.

Tens of millions of dollars were invested and used in speculation during the boom days in Florida following the World war. Stucco hotels, buildings and homes of multi-colored hue rose in the swamplands. Then came the mammoth drainage ditches to provide bigger and better sites, owners of which hoped to bring the West Coast motion picture films to Florida.

Civic Outlays Vast

There was talk of oil well gushers, and more and more millions were voted for public improvements. Then came the day of reckoning.

During the past 10 years, Florida wallowed out of the wreckage of a burst bubble, and business men now are looking ahead to more boom days with the experience they gained during the 1920s.

Another building boom is well under way. Modern hotels, apartments, department stores, club house structures and sports plants are being built as plans go ahead for 1940, when another new high in building permits is predicted by authorities.

Building during the first 10 months of 1939 showed a gain in the state of $13,000,000 over the preceding year. Total building through Nov. 1 was $57,000,000.

Road Building Extensive

New road building programs are under way throughout the state; a state that boasted of a few miles of good highways 200 years ago. Over these new roads are expected to travel thousands of tourists who migrate here each year by automobile. Newer highways will skirt the Gulf of Mexico and cut through the middle of the state from Lake City to the Tamiami Trail, almost 500 miles long.

Gulf Coast islands—wild and untamed since their discovery—are being developed as the new land-seeking move increases. Causeways and bridges link the new properties to the mainland and dedications of projects are being held at such a pace that state officials are unable to attend all of them.

DISEASE, COLD FOLLOW QUAKE

toppled on sleeping townsfolk in the first shock.

Other miserable survivors huddled in the fields, where many froze to death.

Cold Hampers Fire Fighting

Bitter cold, ranging to 22 degrees Fahrenheit below zero, hampered efforts to extinguish the fires that burned in nearly every village and town.

Martial law was proclaimed, and rifle-bearing soldiers had orders to shoot looters on sight.

In the province, or vilayet, of Erzincan alone, the dead and injured were estimated officially at 42,000, nearly a third of the total population.

In the capital of the same name, the walls of a great military barracks were the only masonry left standing.

The city was almost destroyed by an earthquake in 1784.

Farther north, where the 10,000-foot peaks of the Janik mountains meet the Black sea, entire villages were buried as steep cliffs tumbled down.

The sea, on which there was a violent storm two days before the earthquake, was driven by a high wind that sent it pounding against the shore.

Ships Are Smashed

Ships were smashed against buildings and seaside homes were carried away with their occupants.

The chaos of communications made full reports impossible, but officials put together a ghastly jigsaw puzzle of death and demolition.

In some places the earth split into huge crevices in others it bulged. Water and fuel mains were ripped apart like soda straws.

Householders were trapped in their beds by the first tremor, and chances of immediate rescue were slim, for the whole district was in the same plight.

In Sivas vilayet, the village of Zaza had 1,500 dead and their homes destroyed.

A national emergency committee gathered funds for relief of the hundreds of thousands of persons turned into homeless, freezing paupers by the disaster.

No Firemen Needed

BLAIN, Pa.—There was only one way to save John Barnes' sawmill when it caught fire, neighbors figured, and that was to tear it apart.

And tear it apart they did, leaving the flames confined to a 20-foot slab of wood.

Now all they have to do is put it together again.

Employment Service Passers Capture First Round Title In Class A League

ROBERTS QUINT IS 5TH VICTIM OF OSES TEAM

Rudy Schuster Collects 19 Points To Lead Team To Victory

Keeping their perfect record intact, the Ohio State Employment Service cagers defeated Roberts Men's Shop, 43 to 34, at the Memorial building last night to annex the first round championship of the city's Class A Basketball league.

With Rudy Schuster setting a fast pace by hooping seven field goals and five free throws for 19 points, the O. S. E. S. passers took an early lead and held it throughout the game.

The O. S. E. S. lads outscored Roberts from both the field and the foul line, making 17 field goals to Roberts' 13 and nine free throws to the Men's Shop team's eight.

The victory was the O. S. E. S. team's fifth in a row. It was Roberts' third set-back in five games.

Suffers Second Defeat
The National Sanitary, which up until Wednesday night was tied with the O. S. E. S. for the lead in the Class A league, suffered its second defeat in the other senior circuit game, falling before the Carroll Club, 31 to 26.

The victory enabled the Carroll Club to finish the first round in a tie for second place with the Sanitary outfit.

Clay Raynes and Bill Fisher shared scoring honors in the Carroll Club's victory, making eight points apiece. Al Catlos counted 10 points for the Sanitary.

The last of the Class B league's unbeaten teams fell by the wayside in junior league games as the Christians lost to Demings, 33 to 25, and the Carroll Cadets dropped a 25 to 22 decision to the Baptists.

The Christians and Carroll Cadets, each of whom had previously won three games, are now tied for the lead in Class B with the Baptists.

Breezy Briefs Of Sport From Brietz To You

By ROBERT MYERS
(Sitting In For Eddie Brietz)
LOS ANGELES, Dec. 29.—Today's boldest prediction: The 1941 Rose Bowl game will be between the Washington Huskies and the winner of the Texas-Texas A. and M. war at Austin.

Odds and Ends

Tidbits, odd and otherwise. Kayak II is the solid horse to win the $100,000 Santa Anita handicap, but Seabiscuit is still the people's sentimental favorite.

Sammy Baugh evidently wasn't kidding last fall when he said Andy Farkas would be a sensation with the Washington Redskins. The pro footballers, incidentally, are drilling quietly for their annual pro-bowl game here Jan. 7, the Green Bay Packers going against the National league All-Stars in the affair.

Green Bay and Washington were voted the most colorful pro clubs ever to show here. Red Grange was the one-man riot.

Harry (Truck) Hannah, new boss of the Memphis club, went back a huddle with Tennessee sports writers over the baseball prospects and emerged from the conference offering to bet that the Vols trim Southern California New Year's day.

Speaking of the Rose Bowl, as who out here isn't those Dallas Cotton Bowl folks certainly gave the Rose people a scare when they nearly signed Tennessee and the Texas Aggies for their game.

William H. (Bill) Spauling, for years coach at U. C. L. A. and now athletic director, drew the biggest hand of all when he was called on to take a bow at a home-coming banquet at, of all places, U. S. C.

The ovation was so tremendous the toast-master changed signals and called on Bill to make a speech.

Golf Pros Busy
The golfing pros go into the 1940 merry-go-round next week in the Los Angeles Open. Watch out that an amateur doesn't win the event. His name is Bud Ward of Spokane, Wash. After the L. A. comes the Oakland; San Francisco and Bing Crosby's tournament at Del Mar.

Ask Bing, by the way, to play his latest recording; the one where he "blew up" at the finish and inquiries what became of eight bars of the song. You won't find the record at the music counter.

Today's guest star: Jack Troy of the Atlanta Constitution—U. S. C. had better quit worrying whether George Cafego's knee is good or bad and think about this boy Johnny Butler. He's the young man who really carried Tennessee into the Rose Bowl, and he's liable to carry S. C. out of it—feet first.

Columbiana Cagers Take Two-Day Trip
COLUMBIANA, Dec. 29.—The Columbiana High school basketball team left today on a two-day trip to central Ohio where they will play Junction City tonight and Gibsonville Saturday.

Coach Al Beach was the Junction City coach for six years prior to his coming to Columbiana. Team members were required to secure special permission from their parents before being allowed to make the trip. The next home game on the local schedule will be the first of the annual East Palestine games, the Bulldogs coming here on Friday evening, Jan. 5. School opens next Wednesday after a 12-day holiday vacation.

Sign Four Indians

CLEVELAND, Dec. 29.—Four Cleveland Indians are on the 1940 roster today, with the signing of Pitcher Mel Harder. Vice President C. C. Slapnicka of the Cleveland club did not reveal Harder's salary, but it was believed to be about $15,000. Tribesmen who signed earlier include Pitcher Bob Feller and Infielders Oscar Grimes and Ray Mack.

Title At Stake

COLUMBUS, Dec. 29.—Jack (Buddy) Walker's claim to the Ohio heavyweight title will be at stake in a 10-round bout here Jan. 5 with Eddie Simms, of Cleveland. Walker, Columbus fighter, has won all 12 of the bouts that comprise his boxing career—and 10 were won by knockouts.

High School Star's Kick Biggest Thrill To Scribes

By FRITZ HOWELL
COLUMBUS, Dec. 29.—The thrills of '39... or thumbing back through a year of swell sports assignments!

We heard the yells and moans at the World series, the cheers of $2,000 as Notre Dame beat Navy's gridders at Cleveland, the scream of 30-caliber bullets at Camp Perry's national matches, the roar of shotguns at the Grand American trapshoot. But our big moment of the passing year came in death-like quiet, broken only by the patter of raindrops on a press-box window.

It came the day Bob Wolff, substitute backfielder for Toledo Waite High school, backed up to his 31-yard line to boot a field goal against Portsmouth in the first annual Buckeye Bowl game at Ohio State university's stadium.

Fewer than 4,000 fans were in the rain-swept stands, practically out of sight under the over-hanging upper deck. Only 32 seconds remained to play, and Portsmouth led 5 to 6. It was 41 yards to the bottom of the goal post, and Wolff needed a 50-yard kick to get it over the bar. He had never booted a field goal in his life.

Needed Goal
Quiet fell as he set up the play. If he missed, his team would be the loser. If he made it, his team, the winner. But he was the kid with the kick in the clutch. He made it. Waite won 9 to 7.

SURVEY SHOWS FOOTBALL WAS SAFER IN 1939

Only 12 Deaths Ascribed Directly To Grid Sport

LOS ANGELES, Calif., Dec. 29.—Substantial strides in the reduction of football fatalities were reported today by Dr. Floyd R. Eastwood of Purdue university in the ninth annual survey presented to the National Collegiate Athletic association.

The report for the past season disclosed it had been the safest since the surveys were started in 1931. Twelve deaths were ascribed directly to football, representing a 63.6 per cent reduction from the fatalities in 1931 and a drop of 25 per cent from last season. In addition, there were six fatalities for which football was held indirectly responsible.

Of the twelve due directly to football, seven occurred in High schools, three in colleges and universities, one on the sandlots, and one in athletic club competition. In 1931 there were 33 deaths directly caused by football and 16 indirectly.

Reason For Drop

Improved equipment and training techniques were given as the chief reasons for the reduction in fatalities. Noting that the last two weeks of October apparently are the most hazardous from the injury standpoint, Dr. Eastwood suggested special emphasis be paid to a review of tackling and blocking fundamentals during that month.

He also suggested the need for improved technique in preparing a player to start the game, with emphasis on emotional control, and the possibility that fourth period fatalities might be reduced by more liberal substitutions.

He likewise advocated continued attention to complete and thorough physical examination for all athletes, exacting care and treatment of all minor wounds, and continued study of the proper construction and fit of headgear.

NORTH, SOUTH SET FOR GAME

Grid Teams From Rival Section To Clash New Year's Day

MONTGOMERY, Ala., Dec. 29.—The 1939 edition of the Rebels and Yankees tapered off today in their preparations for the second annual Blue and Gray football game tomorrow. Most fans agreed it would be a toss-up.

The Grays chose Smiley Johnson, Georgia guard, as their captain and named Ken Kavanaugh, L. S. U. end, alternate leader, while the Blues elected John McIntyre, Notre Dame center, as their leader.

The probable starting lineups:

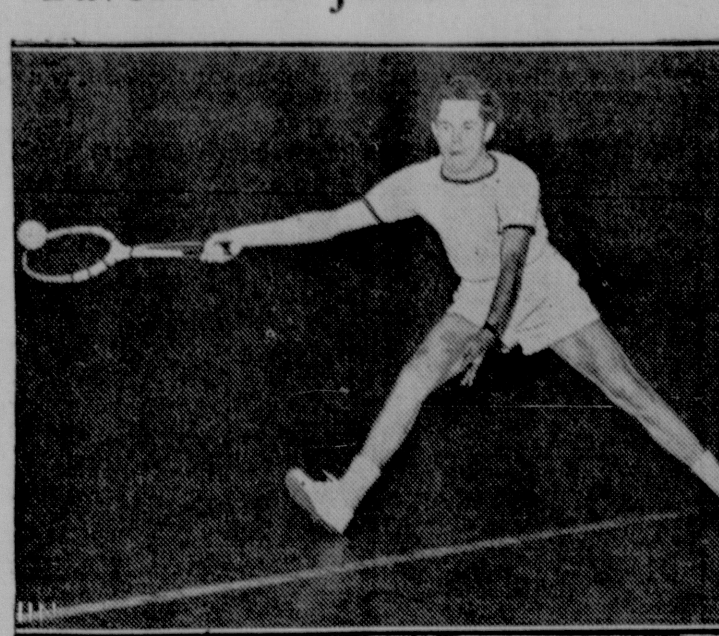

North
Grete, Northwestern, and Tomasso, Scranton, ends; Cutlich, Northwestern, and Jocher, Manhattan, tackles; Manrodt, Brown, and Method, Northwestern, guards; McIntyre, Notre Dame, center; Rogalla, Scranton, or Tranavitch, Rutgers, quarter; Zadworney, Ohio State, and Hutchinson, Dartmouth, halfbacks; Principe, Fordham, full-back.

South
Kavanaugh, L. S. U., and Bailey, Duke, ends; Pate, Wake Forest, and Goff, Florida, tackles; Johnson, Georgia, and Ribar, Duke, guards; Cox, Alabama, center; Andrs, Vanderbilt, quarter; Nix, Mississippi State, and Heineman, Texas Mines, halfbacks; Shetley, Furman, full-back.

Faces Jim Reeves

CLEVELAND, Dec. 29.—Marty Simmons, Saginaw (Mich.) lightweight, will box Jimmy Reeves, of Cleveland, here Jan. 5 in an eight-round semi-final to the 10 round main event between Lightweights Wesley Ramey, of Grand Rapids, Mich., and Mike Gamiere, of Cleveland.

NCAA COACHES SEEK CHANGES IN GOAL POSTS

Want Uprights On Football Field Wider and Lower

By RUSSELL NEWLAND
LOS ANGELES, Calif., Dec. 29.—News and views on the American Football Coaches association and the National Collegiate Athletic association, meeting here concurrently.

Coaches want the foot put back in football. Some of them, perhaps, recall losing games by one point last season. A 30-man committee, representing a cross section of the country's coaching talent, voted yesterday to recommend to the national football rules committee, adoption of new goal posts, wider and lower than the standards now in use. If the rule is adopted, as some think it will be, there should be a boom market for drop and place kicking specialists.

The mentors, however, neglected to put their best foot forward. The graduate engineers among them failed to lay down specifications. The powerful rules body could grant the wish by the technical side-tracking of widening the uprights one inch and lowering the cross bar that much.

Other Suggestions
Other suggestions to be passed on to the rules makers include reduction of the penalty for an illegal receiver being hit by a passed ball behind the goal line from 15 to 5 yards; adoption of a three-eighth inch cleft instead of

The lead held by Smith's Creamery in the Commercial league was sliced from seven to four games at the Grate Recreation alleys last night as the Creamery five dropped three games to the seventh-place Crescent Machine.

The second-place Washingtonville Odd Fellows picked up three games on Smith's when they were awarded a forfeited match with the Ohio Bell.

Merit Shoes clung to third place despite losing two games to the Trades Class fourth-place team, while Berk Bretzels lost two games to E. W. Bliss but remained in fifth place. In other matches the Jaycee All-Stars posted three wins over the Salem Polo Club to hold sixth place and the Leetonia Eagles took two out of three heats with People's Lumber.

Two victories over the Office enabled the Draftsmen to remain in first place in the Electric Furnace league at the Masonic temple lanes.

The second-place Shippers chalked up a pair of wins over the Machinists to stay three games behind the Draftsmen.

The Electricians won three heats with the Structural Dept. and the Purchasing Dept. rang up two wins over the Transformers in other Electric Furnace matches.

Best series of the night was turned in by Forest Bishop, who hit 603 on games of 207, 211 and 190 at the Grate alleys.

A special match at the Grate drives saw the Glidden Paint ladies team nose out a Masonic men's team, 2290 to 2285. The ladies were spotted 50 pins. Mrs. Ruth Hine was high for the match with a 528 series.

 (Published in The Salem News, Dec. 29, 1939 & Jan. 5, 1940)

COLUMBIA, S. G.—S. J. Ashby, gardener of the stachouse lawn on Capitol Hill, is over the case of jitters caused by the European war. He has received word that his order of 3,000 tulip bulbs has arrived safely in New York from Holland. In Ashby's opinion, the bulbs would have been a fit prize for any submarine.

"LOVE'S INTERLUDE" by -MAY- CHRISTIE

CHAPTER XVII
Now, in the private room of the hospital where Mrs. Rules lay, Moira decided that if she couldn't get, at least she could give. She'd come in daily to cheer up the sick woman.

Was it coincidence—or wasn't it—that Dr. Rodney Stone usually dropped in at Moira's visiting hour?

He was so kind. Presently the bandages were removed from the patient's eyes. Mrs. Rules' only worry now was on the question of possible disfigurement.

"But the doctor does marvels in plastic surgery. Nurse Emmet told me so. Only I'm sure you won't need anything of the kind." Moira was far from sure, but the main thing was to cheer the patient, who had come to lean on Moira. Were the girl a few minutes late for the daily reading of the newspapers, the cheerful chat, Mrs. Rules fretted till she appeared.

"You'd make an admirable nurse," the doctor told her. He had just taken Moira through the children's ward. Her quick sympathy, her tact, her kindness were not lost on him. And one noon when she was leaving the hospital and he was stepping into his own car, he offered to drive her to her destination, and she suggested that they have a bite of lunch together.

She complied. Although it was mid-December, the air that day was almost like spring. And the sun shone. She felt happy and protected. His presence was magnetic. He handled the car in the heavy traffic with ease and precision.

They swung west. Would he take her to one of the fashionable restaurants in the Fifties? Somehow, she hoped not. She wanted quiet—with him. An advancement of their friendship. It had grown to mean a lot to her. Something strong and steady.

He was silent as they drove. He brought the same dexterity to a neat turn of the wheel, the manipulation of the machine, as to the usual run of his work. She noticed that. The keen eye of the surgeon, the sure hand and nerve.

They went swiftly through the park. Then Riverside drive. They drew up at an inn below whose windows were the shining waters of the Hudson. Beauty below and, inside, peace and quiet.

A waiter led them to a table by the window that was gay with tulips. Dr. Stone picked up the menu card.

"Hm! What'll we have? I suggest brook trout... new potatoes... green peas."

Over the spring flowers, Moira nodded assent. "And hold on a minute... a half-bottle of sparkling burgundy would go well. You have some here?"

"Certainly, sir." The waiter named a vintage disappeared. The doctor, "that I have a privilege like this. It needs a little celebration."

Moira was thinking: "He looks years younger and terribly attractive when he gives that gay smile." There was something so boyish in his manner—an air of playing truant—when he added: "It's as though one left one's cares in the hospital."

She said: "You work too hard." "It has to be done. But don't let's talk of work—sickness—operations. Let's talk about you, Miss Moira."

She flushed. "I'm terribly humdrum." But she was thrilled. That a man as important as the doctor could be interested—but it was only politeness, of course.

"I think you're a particularly nice girl." It was spoken in no idle vein. His voice was quiet and sincere.

She stammered: "Thank you. I'm pleased, naturally. But in comparison to you—your work—I feel futile—inconsequential."

He looked into her eyes. She saw warmth, appreciation.

"When I see you bringing comfort to everyone in the hospital," she continued, struggling against her shyness, "the work I've found to do seems pitifully small. I never intended it, in the first place. I wanted something creative—like designing beautiful clothes—contributing beauty—developing my small talent in a wider field. And all I do is land in a beauty parlor. From the sublime to the ridiculous! Don't I sound silly?"

"It never occurred to you that if I mend broken bodies, you do a like job on the soul? That we're both doctors?"

She looked amazed. "What had souls to do with beauty parlor?" Was he referring to her visits to the hospital? The cheering up of his patient?

"Bringing beauty to tired or disappointed women is a mission. You never thought of that?"

"Most men in your position would think it was mere catering to their vanity. That it was frivolous work."

"There spoke some of the New England forebears!" He laughed. "That's the Puritan strain! This is a newer world."

"You mean—if I bring beauty to women—I bolster up their ego?"

"—And fortify them for the battle that living is today. Knowing that she looks well is a real spiritual tonic to a woman. Any psychiatrist would agree to that."

"So," said Moira, "out of your big-heartedness you glorify my menial job into something necessary and fine?" And she smiled. A vision of Deverney's beauty parlor rose before her. Had he any idea how the customers gossiped to the operators? What intimate revelations were given?

"I wonder," she said, "if your patients ever tell you the things they confide in us girls?"

He laughed outright. "That confirms me in my contention that you're a doctor of souls!"

The waiter brought the food and wine. He drew the cork. Poured the sparkling burgundy into two glasses.

The doctor said: "A toast!" Her heart rose.

"The mender of bodies drinks to the little mender of souls. May she go on cheering up the doctor, and may she count on his true friendship!"

Moira was worried about Tarry. Was he drifting away from her? Was she to lose him, after cherishing the image of him all these years?

The fact that, miraculously, he had got and retained a job on Wall Street, these dreadfully competitive days, had carried her through many a trying hour at the beauty shop, and eased her disappointment in her own failure to achieve something with a future in it. She told herself that all the future she wanted was woven round Tarry now.

But—did Tarry really need her? He had told her that he loved her. "Take care of yourself, darling. You're very precious to me."

He would end their telephone conversations with assurances like that. Sweet words that thrilled her. She would go over and over them, in secret, like the beads on a rosary.

"Get to bed early, Moira. I'm busy. I'm working. It won't always be like this, darling. One day I'll have you for keeps. You know that."

Not in so many words had he asked her to marry him now. But, she told herself, that sprang from his innate delicacy. When he had the means to support her, he would declare himself, as the old-fashioned saying goes. Not for him the modern fifty-fifty working marriage.

At other and depressing times she would tell herself that his assurances came too easily. Trite. It was as though he were stalling.

But when for days she saw nothing of him, and her telephone failed to carry his loved voice to her ears, she hardened her heart against him, schooled herself to a future without Tarry and his problems and his moodiness, but her resolution would be wrecked by the sudden appearance of him in the flesh.

He needed her. He would fling himself on the divan that turned into a bed, at night. Like the Greeks of old, he brought gifts. Peace-offerings. Usually prosaic, practical ones.

A steak. A tongue in a big glass jar. A cardboard box of mushrooms.

If the surest way to a man's heart is through his appetite, then Moira did her best, these days. She studied cook books and recipes out of the women's magazines, and experimented with mousses and souffles and what-have-you, even if she was tired after her long day's work at the shop.

Butter-kissed waffles. (That was for Sunday twelve o'clock "brunch," and was accompanied by grilled sausages and coffee, with a cigarette or two afterwards.)

These intimate little meals were fairly inexpensive, but they took time and planning. Always, Moira felt amply repaid by Tarry's hearty eating, and he never failed to praise her cooking.

Glowingly replete then, he would talk about himself. She encouraged that. Her tiny apartment, she told herself, was his only real home. To make it so attractive to him that he would come often—that was her ambition. And surely the inevitable time would arrive when he would see that he could not do without her, and they would join finances in a modern working marriage.

Robert Stump, son of Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Stump, returned home after spending six months at Missoula, Montana.

Mr. and Mrs. Carl Gardner and family have moved into the Raymond C. Miller property.

Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Shively and children of Jackson, Mich., were home for the Christmas holidays. Mr. Shively will return to Jackson, while Mrs. Shively and children will remain here for some time.

Miss June Stewart was hostess to members of the Amatola Girls' class of the Presbyterian church at her home in Homeworth recently. There were 18 members present. Gift exchange, singing Christmas carols, playing games were features. Refreshments were served.

If a still small voice of common-sense informed her that their conversations always centered around Tarry, that he showed little interest in her doings, she would thrust that thought from her mind. A handsome young man was always egotistic. She wouldn't have him different. It was her meritor to sympathize and listen.

He very seldom took her out these days.

She would gladly have gone to the Automats to save his pocket-book. Walks in the park cost nothing. One could really have an awful lot of fun in New York, with a congenial companion, without actually spending. But it was hard for Tarry, accustomed as he once was to flinging money to the winds in night clubs and the most elegant of restaurants, to accustom himself to what he called "mingling with the hot-potlot." Not at all hard for her, however, for she never had had money!

Imagination could take the place of money, anyway!

It was fun to stroll on Fifth ave. during her lunch hour. "Window-shopping" was almost as diverting as the real thing. She would pretend she had a check-book in her pocket, and a fat account in the bank.

She would study the clothes of the women who passed her, making mental notes of the most becoming styles. She would sometimes sketch these in the evenings, and later hunt for "remnants" in the bargain basements, to make a copy of a hat or a sports coat. One could work wonders if one had clever fingers, and a flair for picking up the main points in an outfit that ordinarily would be far beyond her budget. That's where a dash of imagination, too, was useful. The hat-shops were inordinately tempting. She would stand in front of a show-window filled with the latest models from Paris, sometimes even venturing recklessly inside the shop to try on a swirl of feathers, or a creation in that new shade of antelope or velour.

The flower shops, filled with blooms from the south, were the purveyors of dreams. Wafts of perfume would drift out to the sidewalk. The fragrance of freesia and lily-of-the-valley, violets and mimosa could carry you off on wings from the chill of a New York winter to places of eternal springtime.

The fragile beauty of orchids set in trembling maidenhair fern could transport you to tropical forests in incredibly strange and lovely.

Well, one day she would travel. One day her luck would change. Tarry would come to tell her that he'd made a killing in the market, and they would set off on a honeymoon that would take them to Brazil... Tahiti... Rangoon.
